April 2024

Books have always been my constant companions. They never talk back, don't eat all the chocolate, and keep me company when I need a friend. Some books I slog through, just finishing because I keep hoping it will get better, and others leave me a better person for having spent time in their pages. Studies have been done showing that people who read fiction develop more empathy, theory of mind, and critical thinking. (<https://www.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/pmc/articles/PMC3559433/>)

Two memorable books I've read recently are:

Lovely War by Julie Berry

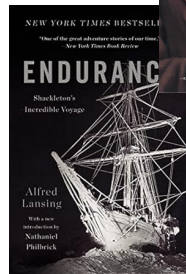

Endurance: Shackleton's Incredible Voyage

by Alfred Lansing

Come visit us at the library! We'd love to hear about the books that have made a difference to you.

What advice do you get from your librarian?

Always believe in your shelf!

A man goes into a library and asks for a book on cliffhangers. The librarian says:

Ring Lamp

Wi-Fi Smart Hub

DVD Player

Museum Passes

Card & Board Games

CD Player

Therapy Lamp
